HOBSON PERSISTENT.

Richmond Pearson Hobson is disposed to inflict his war scare speech upon the people at every opportunity. The members of the Denver convention were in victims yesterday.

Mr. Ormonde, of Florida, moved Hobson be invited to address the convention. Muddled with cheers were many cries of "No! No!"

Chairman Bell put the motion to a viva voce vote, and there was a rousing storm of "aye" and "no," some of the delegates supplementing their negative votes by demands of "Give us committee reports; we want to do business."

The chairman decided that the vote was a tie. "It is therefore the privilege of the chair to cast the deciding vote, and I cast it in the affirmative," declared the chair.

Cheers and a few hisses followed Hobson to the stand.

After Hobson had been speaking for fifteen minutes, the crowd began to grow restless, and cries of "Time!" came from floor and galleries.

Chairman Bell called for order, saying the speaker would conclude in a few minutes.

In concluding his address, Mr. Hobson declared that, if the democratic party were successful in the election, he believed it would, before the end of four years, have a great foreign war on its hands.

Instantly there came from the convention a chorus of mingled groans, catcalls, hisses and cries of "No! No!"

Hobson was determined to finish his address as soon as he was given an opportunity to do so.

"My countrymen, my message is very through," said Mr. Hobson, when he had attention. A cry of "Amen!" sent a gale of laughter over the hall.

"I want to say to you," went on Hobson, gritting his teeth in determination, "that not so very long ago the president of the United States said in my presence, 'There exists the great probability of a war with Japan.'"

"No! No! Come off!" shouted the crowd, and there was an outburst of cries which continued for several minutes.

"Gentlemen," said Chairman Bell, "this speaker will be allowed to finish, and if he is interrupted again by the galleries, the sergeant-at-arms will be directed to clear them."

"If this great war comes," said Mr. Hobson, with intense earnestness, "the party upon which the responsibility comes will be ground to powder. I believe that at this juncture we should place the responsibility where it belongs—upon the party now in power, and which has neglected to provide adequate coast defense."

"The chair wishes to say a word or two," said the chairman as soon as the tumult that followed Hobson's retreat had given him a chance to speak, and he then added:

"The chair hails from the Pacific coast, and up to the present moment he has seen no occasion to enlist."

Colonel Haldeman, of Kentucky, was recognized by the chair and, standing at his place in the center aisle, he asserted that the convention had business to transact and ought to proceed to it without further flights of oratory. Colonel Haldeman then proceeded to take issue with Mr. Hobson, declaring that the United States has 22 first-class battleships and Japan but 16. "And I want to say that we are not afraid of Japan, or any body else on the face of the globe," continued Colonel Haldeman amid applause.

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble.

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.

SAMUEL BOYER, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by W. F. Orlington & Co. and Richard Gibson. Samples free.

LIABLE FOR SUICIDES.

Damages of $1,000, given by a jury in Judge Gibbons' court in Chicago yesterday, establishes a precedent in Illinois which bodes no good for the saloonkeepers of the state. By its finding the jury decided that a saloonkeeper who sold liquor to a man to the extent that the buyer committed suicide was financially liable. The case on trial was that of Mrs. Julia Chuliek, against John Abramoviz, a saloonkeeper. Chuliek, it was charged, while under the influence of liquor, obtained in Abramoviz's saloon, committed suicide, and the widow sued the saloonkeeper and the Peter Hand Brewing Company. For months prior to Chuliek's suicide, it was averred, he had been a patron of Abramoviz's saloon. A number of times, Mrs. Chuliek declared she went to the saloon and warned Abramoviz to refrain from selling or giving drinks to her husband. He paid no attention to her warning and ordered her to leave the place. Twice in the New York courts, it was said, judgments in similar cases have been returned, but this verdict is the first of its kind in Illinois.

Kodol will without doubt help anyone who has stomach disorders or stomach troubles. Take Kodol today and continue it for the short time that is necessary to give you complete relief. Kodol is sold by W. F. Orlington & Co.
